Day 50

Do nothing out of selfish ambition or vain conceit, but in humility consider others better than yourselves. Phil. 2:3

Imagine that you were a servant in the royal palace of a monarch, as had been your ancestors for many generations. Further imagine that a baby was born into the royal family that was both mentally retarded and physically handicapped. You are called on to place the interests of this child above your own – to 'consider it better' than you – despite the fact that there is NOTHING about the baby that is actually 'better' than you. You would do your very best to serve this baby, even to your own hurt, simply because it was a child of the king and you had agreed to serve the king and all of his interests. If you have made a commitment to serve the King of Kings then your primary concern is to serve Him and His many children, taking care of their interests before worrying about your own. List some of the people your King has asked you to care for, and some of the ways you are to serve them.
